

Website Name: NBABallOfFameGuesser.com

Description: People will log into the website and create an account where they will try and guess the nba player. With doing so there will be a tally marker. For each time you guess a new player you get two attempts. Total wins and losses will be counted and tallied with a percentage of correct/wrong. Hints will be given as some of the players will have which schools listed, as well as former teams, etc. When guesses are up or the player guesses correctly the players image will pop up and his stats will be shown.

Page Names:

Home

Records

About us

Play

Return

Data: All players within the games info would be stored within a file that will coordinate with the given player, player images will be stored. With different user input wins and losses will be recorded as well as the players log in information.